The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s misbehavior and how she let him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime and finds Aunt Polly reading her Bible. She has just read the part about the bad man who was skipped school that afternoon and went down to town and robbed a mill and killed the miller and burned the mill. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom has warned the town of the man’s misdeeds. Tom and the new arrival circulate in the town and eventually chase the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of naught. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
