The Duality Of Human Existence An Essay On Psychology And Religion
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sarcastically on Tom’s naughtiness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper to find Aunt Polly has prepared a sauce that has been bought from someone, and he confesses that he has been skipping school for a week. He has been floating down the Mississippi, and has met a man named Mark Twain, who has shown him how to mark the river. As a result, Tom has earned the nickname “Tom Sawyer.”

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. In the afternoon, Tom tries to get Tom to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of stockade. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
