The Invisible Heart An Economic Romance
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sorrowfully on Tom’s escapade and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, but he has learned nothing about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks him how school is going. “I’ve skipped school that afternoon,” Tom says. “I went out to the woods where the raccoons are and watched them. I watched them until I got tired.”

After this, Aunt Polly is satisfied. She doesn’t want to hear any more about Tom’s adventures. She knows he still needs to be disciplined.

Tom goes out of the house and goes to the beach by the river. While wandering the streets of St. Pius, Tom sees a very fine-looking gentleman and eventually chases the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom lies to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “wheat alleen,” a kind of mustard. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
