The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischievous and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper and Aunt Polly asks him how his day went. Tom says he was skipped school that afternoon and went down to the river bank and drew lots that his colleague is still away from home, but also, Tom's half-brother Sid is there. Tom has sworn to himself to disgrace his friend in front of the girl he likes.

Tom goes out of the house immediately after Aunt Polly leaves him to go to his friend's house. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and the new arrival encounter the nuns who are threatened by the boarders and eventually chase the newcomers all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom asks him to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of marble. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at suppertime and is asked about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly learns that Tom has been skipped school that afternoon and went fishing. Tom tâmfully and shows her that his collar is still around his neck, but flat. Tom’s half-brother, Ben, claims the shirt himself to disguise his actions.

Tom goes out of the house. He is dressed in a coat and hat, and is whistling. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom sees the new arrival of a wagon. He runs away, and eventually chases the newcomer all the way home.
